

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a system for selling putters at the critical point of purchase.

The purchaser of a putter first selects an un-customized putter having the club head, offset,

- 5 and shaft length characteristics desired. Then the purchaser is instructed on how to bend the hosel at the point of purchase to create a putter with a desired lie angle and desired loft angle.